

Judging Others

The more a mind is ignorant, the more easily it judges everything it does not know or is incapable of understanding.

*

I want the peace to come into your mind and also the quiet, patient wisdom which prevents one from jumping to hasty conclusions and judgments.

*

It is always better to keep a quiet mind and to abstain from rushing to conclusions before you have the necessary information.

12 April 1932

*

Tell your vital not to judge on appearances and to collaborate. All is well in the long run.

*

You were wrong to be disturbed; that shows that suspicion was in your mind and heart. And if one is perfectly pure oneself, one cannot have any suspicion. The mind is incapable of knowing; it judges by appearances and not even by their totality but by what it can perceive of them, and its judgment is necessarily false. Only the truth-consciousness can know the truth, and it never suspects or judges.

14 November 1952

*